Public Services Sector Experience

PCS has helped many clients submit successful bids in the public services sector and includes custodial facilities.

Our attention to detail and strategic support has been invaluable in enabling our clients to satisfy the exacting standards expected in these sectors. Understanding the critical nature of the services and their operational requirements, to ensure their business continuity is fundamental to the preparation of successful bids to the emergency services. Custodial projects have their own particular features relating to robustness of facility and understanding the day to day operation of prison type accommodation.

Experience of the construction methods to be adopted to satisfy the client's needs are vital, particularly when the work involves construction activities around or adjacent to live operational facilities. And so is the preparation of plans of work, which ensure that any live facilities continue to provide 100% operational response and providing them in such detail, to stand up to close scrutiny from experts in the field of security and operational continuity.

PCS has experience of developing fire, police and custodial facilities for a variety of clients and of working with leading consultants to help them present their proposals in the most effective way.

Gloucestershire Fire and Rescue Services

PCS supported the successful bidder for the PFI contract to provide four new state of the art community fire stations, including a major 'Life Skills Centre' to provide a permanent exhibition facility to help children understand the variety of dangers they may encounter in life.

We worked through all stages of the Competitive Dialogue process, helping to develop an excellent, high scoring, submission.

Current Fire PFI bids

We are supporting bid teams on two of the current opportunities for the construction of new community fire stations.

At PCS we're able to focus on areas of the bid which need particular attention, including community and stakeholder engagement to ensure that the responses take full account of the needs of the stations once they become operational.

Police Facilities Including Custodial Suites

PCS has worked on a variety of PFI contracts for the development and operation of police facilities including constabulary headquarters, specialist facilities including firearms and anti-terrorist training, and custody suites.

Understanding the operational needs of the police services is fundamental to preparing high scoring submissions and we're able to help the team listen to the client and use specialists who provide detailed technical input to test the quality of the proposals.

Major Prison Scheme, West Midlands

PCS supported the successful bidder for a major £150m-plus contract by the Ministry of Justice to build a new Category 'B' prison facility.

We worked with the team to explain how innovative proposals, for modular offsite construction, of both the structure and the M&E services adds value and provides the MoJ with a high quality facility.
